It can happen, for instance, if the back takes the brunt of a fall or you're hit in the back by a little kid who also had enough energy to hurt their own seat. The best way to fix a seat when it's broken is to take the entire seat apart and clean it thoroughly. Then, once you're happy that everything is in its right place, you can put the seat back together. Materials Needed: • Jig-and-hinge kit • Rubber bands • Screws or other fasteners Step 1 Start
