description: In this talk we'll talk about how to do data analysis with Haskell, and a few small but fun projects. How do we know if a task takes 2 hours or 3 hours to do, and how do we identify if it is repeatable? How do we get access to large amounts of data? Do we really want to? This is a talk about how to script analysis of data as fast as possible, with less time and effort than it takes to simply do it by hand. Keypoints 1. Data analysis pipelines can be automated and easily re-run. 2. Data analysis pipelines can be shared. 3. Data analysis pipelines can be parameterized. 4. Data analysis pipelines can be written in Haskell. 5. Data analysis pipelines can be written in different languages without having to change anything. 6. Data analysis pipelines are optimized! 7. There is no reason to stop at "manual analysis" when you can do it with a script. Scalable Database Design in Clojure. SWISS MANAGER PACK 4.0.WORK.swn.Windows. Snips: A small free terminal emulator.
